

operation of the communication device, wherein the CD telemetry system sends messages to or receives messages from the MD telemetry system, wherein the medical device comprises an infusion pump and wherein the communication device comprises a CD display device that is controlled to show a plurality of infusion parameters simultaneously.